

Meadowlark Curling Rink Conversion To Vulcan District Community Centre May Be Long, Slow Grind...

The campaign of the Vulcan District Recreation Centre to complete the purchase and rebuilding of the former Meadowlark Park curling rink, shown above, netted about $7,000 in the most recent canvass which started Monday, June 15.

On that morning over 20 men and women, made up of volunteers and members of the Recreation Board, took part in a campaign breakfast and then covered most of the district and some town areas during the day. Other parts of the town are yet to be canvassed.

An objective of $85,000 has been set to bring the purchase and rebuilding to a partial state of completion and $10,000 has been paid on the phase of dismantling and hauling of the building to Vulcan which is contracted for $30,000.

Immediate problem of the Recreation Committee is the matter of approximately $17,000 needed to clear the balance of this amount. Summer farm work and the holiday season are making any organized efforts difficult and at a meeting of some of the committee last week it was felt a much larger working group will be required to run a series of large scale money-making projects in addition to the canvassing.

The donation of a purebred Hereford heifer calf to the cause has been made by Neil Giles of Vulcan. This will be raffled as another avenue of fund raising. Two years ago approximately $600 was raised similarly through the raffle of a horse donated by Morley Scobie.

The following is a financial statement of the Recreation Centre prepared by Gordon Brown.

Kinsmen Barbecue Enjoyed

Annual Fly-in Well Attended Despite Winds

Despite Sunday's windy, unfavorable weather, the Vulcan Flying Club's fourth annual "fly-in" was again a successful event, with 18 planes landing at the local airstrip and about 80 persons present for this annual get-together.

About 45 of the flying visitors came early enough to enjoy breakfast at the Vulcan Golf & Country Club and later arrivals swelled the numbers who enjoyed the steak barbecue put on by the Vulcan Kinsmen. Afternoon tea for the lady visitors was served at the home of Phil and Al Lucas.

Fourteen of the visitors entered the golf tournament while others enjoyed a dip at the swimming pool and a day of visiting with friends from many parts of the province.

Winners of various trophies and awards in the golf tournament were:

Men's low, Don Bergen of High River (Vulcan Flying Club Trophy); ladies' low, Marg Lemieux of Calgary (Cockshutt Farm Equipment Trophy); men's low, second prize, Warren Lindsay of Calgary (Jesse Farm Equipment John Deere Trophy).

Special golf competition awards went to: Varno Westersund of Blackie (Willard Equipment L.H.C. Trophy); Nels Lundquist of Lethbridge (M. R. Morrison Ltd. Massey Ferguson Trophy); and Russel Lemieux of Calgary (Richardson & Gould Ltd. Trophy).

Department of Transport officials in an Aztec aircraft were also present and enjoyed the hospitality of the Vulcan club, of which Walter Dann is president and David Mitchell secretary.

Catering to the appetites of the flying farmers and townspeople on Sunday were the Vulcan Kinsmen, who held their Kinsmen Barbecue at the park adjacent to the swimming pool.

Despite an unpleasant breeze, about 135 guests sat down to barbecued steak, an assortment of salad, buns, coffee and pop for the kids, between 3:30 and 6:00 p.m.

Kingpin at the cookhouse was a temporarily displaced Lion, Bert Ohler, who put his deft talents to work over the big homemade barbecue and when the crowd—which

Anglicans Say Goodbye To Brooks Family

The congregation of St. Aldhelm's Anglican Church gathered last Thursday evening to say "goodbye" to Mr. and Mrs. Tom Brooks and family, who are leaving Vulcan to reside in Red Deer.

The church basement had been decorated for the occasion by the Anglican Ladies Guild and Rev. Victor Cowell expressed the regret of all when he said the Sunday School was losing a devoted teacher and onetime superintendent and Grade 1 public school students who had Mrs. Brooks as a teacher would remember her with affection.

The congregation presented the family with a lamp. Mrs. Mumby presented Mrs. Brooks with a Concordance to the Bible from the Sunday School and a purse of money was also presented. Ronnie Brooks was presented with two books in recognition of his work as a Server.

Just about the most pleasant group of "sidewalk superintendents" that Pete Schuler's town crew have ever had to put up with was on hand recently when the cement sidewalks running from the Vulcan Elementary School were poured.

Kathy Hawkesworth, Leslie Jo Warren and Susan Wynne Warren. In the background are Nicholas DeJong, Pete Schuler and Andy Broere. The sidewalk has been raised as part of a project to bring the street level up and cure the drainage problems found on that block. So the youngsters said.

CHEMICAL WARNING!

The Canadian Agricultural Chemicals Association at a recent meeting in Winnipeg issued a warning to farmers regarding the addition of liquid or dry detergents or other household preparations to Weed Killers when spraying crops for weed control.

In the development of any herbicide or pesticide, a great deal of money and research goes into formulating the chemical and particularly in adding the correct quantities and kinds of emulsifiers, wetting agents and solvents. These are necessary to ensure good mixing of the chemical with water, stability of the mix, prevention of foaming, and to produce a blended and balanced product.

Not enough experimental work has been completed to accurately assess the value of wetting agents. Farmers, vegetable growers, etc. are cautioned not to use any additives unless labelled directions on the herbicide containers specifically recommend this. The addition of household or commercial detergents may, in fact, destroy the effectiveness of the product and result in damage to the crop or both.

The alteration of these formulations by adding further amounts of detergents is outside of the terms and recommendations on the label, and the responsibility for such tampering is strictly on the user.

Newspapers are the only medium where people "shop" the ads.

BOB LAUSEN GERRY GOING

— LAST WEEK'S MARKET REPORT —

When it comes to getting top prices we don't have to lift our hats to anyone. Just remember, the market may change from day to day. On our market last Friday we didn't have any choice steers but they could be quoted at $23 to $23.25. Our best steers sold at $21 to $22.40; good to choice heifers $19 to $20.50; good cows $12.50 to $14.50. Stocker and feeder cattle are scarce and sell readily at strong prices. Good stock steers $21 to $23.50; good stock heifers $16 to $18. Stock calves are too scarce to quote, with veal calves up to $29.

If the American prices just get a little higher and it doesn't get too hot in Eastern Canada, then we can expect good strong prices ahead.

SATURDAY, JUNE 27th—

A good steady market on all classes of hogs. Piglets $6 to $8; good weaner pigs $8.50 to $12; good feeder pigs $12.50 to $27; bred gilts and piggy sows $40 to $85. In order to command the top prices don't consign your sows until they are showing real heavy. Boars $15 to $45; baby calves $15 to $60; milk cows $150 to $240.

Successful W.I. Conference Held At Church Of Christ

The 46th Annual Conference of the Little Bow Constituency of the Alberta Women's Institute was held in the Church of Christ, Vulcan on June 2, 1964.

Mrs. Frank Little of Champion, the constituency convener was in charge of the proceedings, with Mrs. Andrew Dunipace of Champion as recording secretary.

Among those present were Mrs. Gerald Newman of Blackie, the District 4 Director, Mrs. Marian Alexander of Cayley, a former District Director, and now a member at large of the Federated Women's Institutes of Canada, and Mrs. Carr, a WI Life Member visiting from Foxwarren, Man.

Committees appointed at the conference were as follows:

Courtesy— Mrs. Sisson of Champion WI and Mrs. Schmidt of Thigh Hill WI.

Resolutions— Mrs. Vickie Slater of Barons WI and Mrs. Myers of Reid Hill WI.

Nominations— Mrs. Brown of Good Deeds WI and Mrs. Nettie Ware of Kirkcaldy.

Corsages were presented by the hostess branches to Mrs. Little, Mrs. Newman and Mrs. Dunipace.

Mrs. F. Little, the District Convener, in her talk to the conference, began by saying that 66 years ago, when the first women's Institute was launched, a man from the Farmers' Institute, remarked that the WI was "a fool fad and a lot of gabby women!" It should be noted, she said, that while the Farmers' Institute has long been disbanded, this "fool fad" is still going strong and now the Women's Institutes have spread around the world, with women working for home and country.

She went on to say that she has found her first year as convener a most interesting and happy one and she has learned much more of institute work. She suggested that "we keep our minds working as well as our hands." She has attended the workshop for leaders in Edmonton, the district conference in Lethbridge and has visited all the branches in the constituency.

Mrs. Newman, the District Director, in her talk, remarked also that where there was work to be done, you would find the Women's Institute in action. She said the greatest career for women is that of homemaker, but that adult learning is most important in this day of automation and that it is the adult who must look ahead and act now, while the children of today are preparing for the future days of automation and increased leisure. The speed of life, she went on to say, takes us by surprise and it will take understanding and tolerance to make the necessary adjustments.

Mrs. Newman is attending the Federated Women's Institute of Canada Convention in Nova Scotia this month and hopes to return with a good report of the meeting for this district.

The branches of the constituency gave full and comprehensive reports of their work and activities during the past year. Projects included assistance and donations to local libraries, gifts, toys and clothing given to the aged, crippled children, and mental patients. Members have made nighties and other clothing and knitted socks and sweaters for the Unitarian Services. Donations have been given to the local hospitals, the Booth Memorial home, The Salvation Army, Woods Christian Home, the Heart Fund, the AWI Girls' Travel Fund and the UNESCO coupon 367, which assists the formation and help with the WI's in the North West Territories.

Members have canvassed for the Red Cross and Cancer Drives, helped at the Polio Clinics, and sent cards of get well, sympathy and baby congratulations to friends and neighbors in their communities. Reid Hill WI and Thigh Hill

Casting a professional eye over the livestock at the recent 4-H Calf Show and Sale are John Andrews and Ivan Haga, whose back is turned to the camera. This corner of the rink was home of the Vulcan West-Ensign Calf Club and an identifying display was neatly built with equipment lockers lining the foreground. Each club had its own distinctive showcase built for its section of the arena.

WI assisted with the town of Vulcan's 50th year celebrations and Mrs. Crowe of Barons donated an embroidered tea cloth which she had made and designed to be sold at the FWIC Convention in Nova Scotia.

Branches have had at their meetings such topics as First Aid, the By-Products of the Meat Industry, the Community and its People, the Canadian Centennial, Citizenship Day and its obligations, U Thant and his background, the Hazards of Perpetual Over-Eating, and many others. Kirkcaldy held a 4-day sewing class and had demonstrations of petit point, and ceramics, also a talk on Economical Food Buying.

Mrs. Helgeson, the Matron of Peter Dawson Lodge, was present at the lunch held in the Vulcan Cafe, at which she spoke and mentioned a few small items still needed in the home. It was later moved that all branches of the Little Bow Constituency would cater to the tea at the official opening of the Lodge and that all branches would each decide what articles they would donate.

The Tea Towel Contest, Mrs. Crowe of Barons reported that the committee set up to select a design had chosen one which had the Alberta tartan around the edge with the wild rose emblem inside and the AWI badge at the bottom. She said that letters had been written to various companies in Ireland and England for particulars in making up the tea towel which could be sold in the stores as a typical Alberta one to tourists, etc. Mrs. Alexander also spoke on this contest.

A recommendation was made and forwarded to the Provincial Executive that Mrs. Alexander's name be submitted for the office of 3rd vice-president of the FWIC.

The following will serve the constituency in the various capacities: Citizenship, Mrs. Vickie Slater; Barons; Education, Mrs. Crowe; Barons; Handicrafts, Mrs. W. O. McLeod, Carmangay; Home Economics, Mrs. M. Scobie, Kirkcaldy; Social Services, Mrs. C. Brown, Vulcan; Agriculture, Mrs. S. Com-

Getting Their Priorities Mixed

If Canadian MPs can spare a moment from waving the new flag or the old, they might give a thought to the question: What, asks The Financial Post in an editorial, became of the Redistribution Bill? Discussion of the bill, says The Post, got bogged down a month ago in an argument about how the commissions, which will redraw the political constituencies map, should be appointed (there will be one commission for each province). The government wants this job to be purely judicial. The Tory Opposition wants party leaders to have a hand in it, an indefensible proposition if, as everyone at Ottawa piously pretends, redistribution is to be taken "out of politics". Parliament met on February 18. If the Redistribution Bill had been passed three months ago (and why not?), the electoral commissions could be at work now. The time factor is important. It will take a year or more, at least in the biggest provinces, to redraw constituency boundaries. Then the new maps will need parliamentary approval. The existing House of Commons represents the predominantly rural Canada of a generation ago. It is now possible that the next House will be elected from the same ridings because MPs are content to let redistribution slide while they emit clouds of gas about flags. If they want to kill the democratic process stone dead they are certainly going the right way about it.

ON THAT SPOT

With the coming of warm summer weather comes an influx of problem stains. Children playing outdoors are prone to grass stains on their clothing. When this happens to your child's washable garment, rub immediately in thick hot suds. If the stain remains, use a commercial bleach or hydrogen peroxide. If grass stains occur on an unwashable garment, sponge the stain with alcohol. This same means of removal applies to all flower and foliage stains.

Soft drinks and fruit stains on washable garments should be soaked in cool water right away, then laundered. If the stain remains and the fabric permits, rub the stain with liquid detergent or synthetic shampoo. Stretch over a bowl and pour boiling water from a one to three foot height over the stained area. Bleaching with an appropriate bleach may be necessary.

Should you get a soft drink or fruit stain on an unwashable garment, sponge the stained area with cool water, and then with diluted liquid detergent. Rinse with alcohol. If the stain remains, sponge with hydrogen peroxide and rinse thoroughly.

Washable garments stained with ice-cream should be soaked in cool water. Wash then in hot water and detergent. Fabrics with a special resin finish need a liquid detergent or grease solvent applied before washing. Ice-cream on an unwashable garment should have absorbent powder sprinkled on it. Sponging with dry cleaning fluid may also be helpful in the removal of the stain.

Two County Students Win In Essay Competition

Attractive enamelled lapel pins were awarded to 95 Alberta students this month for their winning entries in the Farm Safety Essay Competition, sponsored each year by the Alberta Safety Council. The competition is open to pupils of grades 5, 6, 7 and 8 in the rural schools of the province.

Division prizes are given for the best essay from grades 5 and 6 and for the best essay from grades 7 and 8. Permanent record of the pupil's achievement is offered in the form of a hand-lettered certificate mounted on a hardwood plaque for the schoolroom. Subject of the 1964 contest was "Farmstead Safety".

Provincial awards are offered also. First prizes of $50 are given to pupils from grades 5-7-8, who, in the opinion of the judges have written the best essays for their grade in the whole province. These four pupils and their teachers are brought to Edmonton for one day where prizes are presented by the Honorable J. Percy Page, Lieutenant Governor of Alberta, at a special luncheon.

In County of Vulcan No. 2, the best essay from grades five and six was written by Fenton Blozham of Champion school.

In grades seven and eight the winner was Trudie Fisher of Hazel Cameron Memorial School, Vulcan.

FARMSTEAD SAFETY

(By Fenton Blozham, Grade 6, Champion School)

The fire trucks had returned to town and the sympathetic neighbors after offering their hospitality, had gone home. Only the Campbell family remained, staring at the ruins of what had, a short time ago, been their farm home.

Sixteen year old John Campbell slumped down on an upturned bucket, chin in hands, and stared dry eyed at the smouldering ruins. Only a few hours ago he had carried the garbage out to the incinerator. He emptied the garbage and struck a match and waited until the flames started lapping up the paper. He looked around for the lid. There it was across the fence where the strong wind had carried it. A blast on the horn reminded him that father and mother were waiting in the car. Against his father's advice he left the incinerator uncovered and ran for the car. Had his hasty action made them homeless?

John Campbell Sr. kicked at the twisted remains of the fuse box. The electrician had wanted to put in an extra circuit for many appliances that would be used in the Campbell household. If he had not bought that new power saw and had spent the money on that extra circuit, would their house be standing today?

Mother thought back to the happy day three months ago when they had moved into their lovely new home. How could it have happened? Was she to blame? Had she not turned the iron off? She had been hurrying to iron and hang the new curtains before they left for town. How different her feeling was now than when she saw new curtains hanging in her bedroom window. Had she been so excited over the hanging of the new curtains that she had forgotten to turn the iron off?

Each member of the Campbell family had learned a hard lesson that day. For all the days to come each would ask themselves, "Guilty?" or "Not Guilty?"

FARMSTEAD SAFETY

(By Freida Fisher, Grade 7, Hazel Cameron Elementary School)

Jake Steiner stepped into the corral and looped his lariat. The horse swung around and galloped the length of the corral. He turned and, blowing defiantly, side-stepped towards Jake. The horse lunged forward then loped off to the side. Jake twirled the rope deftly and threw it at the head of the animal. As the rope snaked over the colt's head, he reared back.

When Jake had the horse calmed down, he turned to talk to a hand about some chores. As he did so he tied the end of the rope around his waist, this being a usual procedure of his. Behind them another hand opened the gate to bring in the saddle. The open gate didn't go unnoticed by the sharpshad bronc. When the way to the gate was clear, the horse leaped forward. Being tied to the end of the rope, Jake was jerked off his feet and dragged by the half-wild bronc. When the horse felt added weight at the end of the rope, he swung around. The rope tightened against his feet and the crazed bronc went wild with fear. As the horse swung around, the rope became continually shorter, while Jake came closer and closer to the spiked horseshoes. The horse strove to untangle itself and Jake was caught under its knife-like shoes. When the horse finally quieted there was nothing that could be done for Jake except to pick up the pieces.

If Jake had been more careful, he would have realized the danger he was putting himself into. This among many other things may happen to even you.

Report From Parliament Hill

(By Lawrence E. Kindt, M.P.)

The Flag Debate is the main topic of interest on Parliament Hill. One severe criticism has been the method used by the Prime Minister in presenting the flag issue to Parliament. Various Opposition Members have pointed out that if Mr. Pearson had presented his flag design and told Parliament that all M.P.'s could vote as they liked, regardless of Party, as to whether or not they liked the design, the P.M. would have been on much firmer ground. However, Mr. Pearson chose to tell Parliament that if his design was not approved he would resign and there would be a general election. Nearly everyone agrees that a general election on the flag issue would be a disaster for Canada, and might well divide the country forever. Thus, the flag matter has been made a straight partisan and political issue which, in my opinion, is most unfortunate and should not have been done.

The big question still remains—Why did the Prime Minister bring such a controversial matter before Parliament at this time, when other and more urgent matters should have been dealt with?

On the opening day of the Flag Debate, Mr. Diefenbaker moved an amendment to the flag resolution, requesting that a plebiscite be taken on the matter, so that the people of Canada could have a voice in the selection of their flag. The Government has indicated that it will not accept this amendment.

The use of a plebiscite in Parliamentary democracies is a very rare thing, and has only been used twice before in Canada; once in the last century on the question of prohibition, and again in the early 1940's on the question of conscription.

In opposition to a plebiscite it can be argued that it is the duty of elected M.P.'s to do the country's business (that's what they are in Parliament for) and that the choice of a flag is certainly a matter of Government business and policy.

In this case, it can be equally argued that a plebiscite should be taken. Edmund Burke, in his famous speech to the electors of Bristol early in the last century, in what has now become a classic definition of the duties of an M.P., pointed out certain things. Most important of all, Burke pointed out, that it was the duty of an M.P. to use his own judgement in deciding matters of public interest before Parliament, since he (the M.P.) had the particular facts and information concerning the matter at issue at his disposal, and thus he is in a better position to make the decision than his constituents (who in nearly every case would not have the information available on which to make a decision).

However, in matters that involve deep moral or emotional issues, such as the use of alcohol, the retention of capital punishment, (and in this case, the choice of a flag), the public itself has just as much information on the subject as the elected representatives, and indeed since purely moral or emotional matters are involved, the M.P. cannot really speak for his constituents. In these rare cases it is not a question of making a decision or judgment on factual matters (then clearly the duty of an M.P.) but rather a matter of personal feelings, for which an M.P. cannot speak on behalf of his constituents, as their views may be very different from his. In these rare and special cases, a plebiscite is thus justified. In my view, the flag issue is one of these cases.

Plain Answers To A Set Of Plain Questions

Always we hear the plaintive cry of the teen-agers: "What can we do? — Where can we go?" The answer is "Go Home".

Hang the storm windows, paint the woodwork, rake the leaves, mow the lawn, shovel the walk, wash the car, learn to cook, scrub floors, wax floors, do the washing, iron some clothes, repair the sink, build a boat, get a job.

Help the minister, priest or rabbi, the Red Cross, Salvation Army, visit the sick, assist the poor, study your lessons, and if you still have time, engage in sports such as volleyball, tennis, swimming, walking, and then when you are through and not too tired — read a book.

Don't ride around in cars, go steady or waste your time and energy and your talent so that no one will be at war, poverty or sick or lonely again.

In plain simple words: Grow up — quit being a cry-baby; get out of your dream world; develop a backbone, not a wishbone; start acting like a man or woman. I'm a parent. I'm tired of nurs-

ENTERTAIN U.C.W. GROUP
Mrs. Stephen Cowgill entertained the ladies of the four U.C.W. Groups and friends at a coffee party in her garden Saturday morning.

She introduced the subject of forming a Horticultural Society in the Champion district and pointed out the details and advantages of such a group.

Clarence Roth, district agriculturist, then explained how this group could be formed. Some 12 of the 20 ladies present signified their desire of joining. Mr. Roth then gave an interesting and informative talk on gardening, landscaping, pruning of trees and shrubs, etc., and answered many of the ladies' questions on gardening problems.

The hostess then served coffee and doughnuts, bringing an interesting meeting to a close.
